CUSHION, DRINK CONTAINER, URINAL

Huntin' Buddy Accessories has some interesting and useful products for treestand hunting.

Bottom Buddy Seat Cushion. This product has a built-in fanny pack. It adds a much-appreciated cushion to any stand's seat. When the days are long, comfort becomes an obsession. The built-in fanny pack will hold those items you are always forgetting, such as an extra release, a retrieving line, a grunt call, extra knife, etc.

No-Hands-Needed Drink Container. It holds a quart and has a straw that threads up through your shirt so you can take a drink with nothing more than dipping your head a little. This is helpful when game is close and you need to cough.

Nature Calls Urinal. If you are drinking nonalcoholic beverages, then you will appreciate the Nature Calls Urinal. Most hunters know the importance of using a urine container while hunting from a treestand. Most, too, are familiar with their problems: capacity, noise, size of the opening, durability, visibility. This product contains a flexible bladder within a camo cover. It holds two quarts and will hang from the tree easily. The top opens and closes quietly and is large enough. There is even a female adapter available. It is washable for continued use. For hunters who like to chew, there is a Spit-Toon of similar construction, but smaller and designed to hang around the neck. ### DRINK CONTAINER

Another product designed for carrying water or other liquids is the Flexi-Flask from Temple Fork Outfitters of Logan, Utah, telephone (801) 753-1823. This is a flexible bladder flask that fits inside a Neoprene insulated holder. The flexible flask can be boiled or frozen. We have done both, and it remains durable. For Southern hunting, we fill the bottom part way with water and store it in the freezer. Then we fill it with water and it remains cold all day. There are two sizes, 1 pint and 1 quart. The holders have belt loops and snap hooks. One great feature for hunters is that you can squeeze the air out of a partially filled flask to eliminate the noise of water sloshing. Anybody who has hunted with non-flexible plastic flasks knows how noisy they can be when partially full.

TREE UMBRELLA

BuckWing Products [telephone (610) 821-5858] makes the Porta-Roof Magnum Tree Umbrella. This simple product is small enough to carry in your pack, and it weighs very little. Nonetheless, it is very helpful for treestand hunting. It attaches to the tree and provides protection from rain and snow.
